DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Kubota et al (US 2004/0022664).

Kubota teaches an aluminum alloy sputtering target [0001] with 0.5-7at% at least one of Ni, Co, and Fe, 0.1-3at% C, balance aluminum (column 5, claim 1), which completely overlaps the presently claimed composition. Kubota does not specify a portion of the target is to be used for sputtering of a target subjected to friction stir processing.

However, “to be used...friction stir processing” is held to be an intended use for the alloy product. Because the prior art teaches an alloy sputtering target with excellent heat resistance (abstract), said alloy appears to be capable of performing said intended use, substantially as recited. See, e.g., In re Schreiber, 128 F.3d 1473, 1477, 44 USPQ2d 1429, 1431 (Fed. Cir. 1997), MPEP 2111.02. Therefore, because the alloy product taught by Kubota is identical to the presently claimed product, and said alloy is capable of performing the claimed intended use of 'subjected to a friction stir processing', it is held that Kubota anticipates, or in the alternative, has created a prima facie case of obviousness of the presently claimed invention.

Concerning claims 2-4, as stated above, Kubota teaches the claimed composition.

Concerning claims 5-10, Kubota teaches said aluminum alloy is formed by molten cast method [0022].

Double Patenting

4. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

5. Claims 1-10 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-11 of copending Application No.

10/570619. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims of US'619 are also drawn to an aluminum alloy sputtering target processed by friction stir welding method, wherein the aluminum alloy contains 0.5-7at% at least one of Ni, Co, Fe; and 0.1-3at% C (see in particular US'619 at cl. 1, 3, 4).

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
